- 1. The manuscript refers to multiple figures (e.g., Figure 1, Figure 6) and tables (Table
- 2, Table 3), yet some of these visuals are not visible in the draft or appear as placeholder text. Please ensure all visuals are correctly inserted, numbered, and
- 2. While informed consent is addressed, a statement on ethical approval (e.g., from a university research ethics board) should be added to conform with international research standards.
- 3. The limitations section is appreciated, but could be expanded. For instance, you might mention the cultural specificity of the module and its potential challenges in being adopted by more diverse or secular school settings.
- 4. Ensure consistent use of capitalization and punctuation, particularly in section titles and table headings.
- 5. Uniform formatting of references (APA style) must be checked, especially for sources with multiple authors or accessed from URLs.
- 6. Abstract: The phrase "product evaluations show that..." may be revised to: "The evaluation of the module revealed that..."
- 7. Introduction: The quote from Long (2005) could be better contextualized with a sentence connecting it to the needs analysis discussion.
- 8. Results: Include standard deviations or ranges in the scoring data for richer
- 9. References: Some references such as "Tomlison, 2013" should be corrected to
