Dear Ms. Anita Anita

Thank you for your submission to IJLTR. This is to acknowledge that we are in receipt of your submission.

Please make sure that your submission follows the author guidelines available at journal website (ijltr.urmia.ac.ir/journal/authors.note). Submissions not following these guidelines will be rejected without further consideration.

We would also like to bring to your attention that our journal is very strict on plagiarism. Please make sure that you have checked your work against plagiarism. Authors found plagiarising will be blocked from further submissions to the journal and our associate journals.

NOTE ON REVIEW PROCESS

Before external review, your work will be screened by the journal editors, and the initial screening result will be brought to your attention, informing you whether your paper shall proceed to peer review. This stage can take up to one month. The peer review process takes an average of 4-6 months. Accepted papers (after peer review) will wait in a queue before they are assigned an issue number. Considering the limited number of issues we publish and the large number of submissions we receive, authors will need to wait for up to two years (after receiving an acceptance) before their paper gets published in an issue. Authors are requested to make their submission with this understanding. To track your paper, please log into your account at: ijltr.urmia.ac.ir.

Once again, thank you for choosing IJLTR as a potential outlet for sharing your research output with the Applied Linguistics community.

Best wishes

Karim Sadeghi, PhD
